The TOWER APRIL 2023

HOLY WEEK

Palm Sunday  Maundy Thursday  Good Friday  Easter Sunday

Rev. Dr. John C. Lentz, Pastor
WORDS FROM REV. DR. JOHN C. LENTZ, JR.

T.S. Eliot wrote, “April is the cruellest month, breeding lilacs out of the dead land, mixing memory and desire, stirring dull roots with spring rain.”

I have always thought that was a bit harsh! I like April. The Guardians are back in play. The days are significantly longer. And even though our gardens aren’t fully in bloom – there are a lot of buds budding and flowers sprouting. On top of all this we celebrate Easter, the day of resurrection and new life. I hope you will make it back to church on Sunday, April 9 at 11:00 AM.

April is very special this year for two more reasons. I have invited two amazing people to preach at Forest Hill Church during the month. On Sunday, April 2 The Rev. George Walker will preach. George and I have been friends for 30 years. We met while in Winchester, Va. He was a recent graduate of Duke Divinity School and was an intern at one of the two PCUSA church in town. I was serving as the Associate Pastor at the other church. George is smart and funny and committed to things that matter. He worked for a while in Cleveland at Interact Cleveland. He now lives with his partner in Washington DC.

At the end of the month (April 30) The Rev. Dr. Kimberly Wagner will preach. Dr. Wagner is the Assistant Professor of Preaching at Princeton Theological Seminary. But we know Professor Wagner as Kim who grew up at Forest Hill Church. Kim, her mom and dad (Jim and Debbie) and sister Christine were much beloved. We are hopeful that the entire family will return for a reunion of joy and fellowship. Kim recently published her first book entitled: Fractured Ground: Preaching in the Wake of Mass Trauma, (Westminster/John Knox Press). Forest Hill Church will be hosting a public lecture and talk back on Friday, April 28 at 10:00 AM. All are welcome.

Don’t miss these special days and hear some dynamic preaching. Come and see why April is not the cruellest, but maybe the best, most hopeful and coolest month of the year.

Maundy Thursday, Thursday, April 6. 6:00 supper. 7:00 service of worship in the sanctuary. If you wish to join, please register here: https://fhc.breezechms.com/form/25a55e15.

Good Friday, Friday, April 7 Community Good Friday Service at St. Pauls’, Cleveland Heights 12:00 Noon to 3:00 PM.

~Peace to you!  John
Rev. George Walker will be our guest preacher on Sunday, April 2.

George Walker serves as the Chief Equity Officer for Planned Parenthood Federation of America. He oversees the implementation and stewardship of diversity, equity and inclusion for the organization and will lead the team that drives the work throughout the national office, and assists in guiding the Federation. Prior to coming to PPFA, he led Diversity & Inclusion at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, New York, the world's oldest cancer care facility. A proud former volunteer of the U.S. Peace Corps, he served in Guayaquil, Ecuador.

George Walker has worked extensively in social justice and philanthropic causes, as an employee and volunteer. He currently sits on the founding board of the Studio Design School, based in New York. In February 2012, President Barack Obama appointed him to be a member of the White House Board of Advisors on Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), where he served until the end of the administration in 2016. He was selected to serve as a German Marshall Memorial Fellow, representing the US and learning about transnational partnerships on a variety of issues while traveling to five European Countries.

George is a graduate of Morehouse College (BA History) and The Divinity School, Duke University (M-Div). He is also a graduate of The Georgetown University, with a Certificate in Executive Coaching. He is an ordained minister in the United Church of Christ (UCC).

Rev. Dr. Kimberly Wagner will be our guest preacher on Sunday, April 30.

The Rev. Dr. Kimberly Wagner serves as the Assistant Professor of Preaching at Princeton Theological Seminary. She received a B.S. in Secondary Life Science Education from Miami University (OH), an M.Div. from the Candler School of Theology at Emory University, and her Ph.D. from the Graduate Division of Religion at Emory University. Though she has served among the Lutherans and was educated among United Methodists, Dr. Wagner is ordained as a Minister of Word and Sacrament in the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). Previous experience on the pastoral staff of a PCUSA congregation in Virginia helps fuel and inform her present scholarship and teaching. She is passionate about supporting students’ formation and helping clergy and communities navigate the realities of an ever-changing world and church. Her current writing and work focus on preaching and ministry in the midst and wake of trauma, particularly thinking about collective trauma, the role of the preacher, and the resources of our Scriptures and faith to respond to these moments. Dr. Wagner’s book, Fractured Ground: Preaching in the Wake of Mass Trauma (Westminster John Knox Press, 2023), offers guidance for preaching in the aftermath of communal trauma, including mass violence, natural disasters, and public health crises.
Dear Friends,

I am inviting you to participate in three gatherings that will help open up future possibilities for our church. Each and every congregant is important in the process of moving forward.

As you remember, soon after Pastor Goines retired, the Session organized a series of “Congregational Conversations” to help us process our feelings. We had over 100 people participate. The questions were:

- How are you feeling?
- What did you most appreciate about Pastor Goines and the Co-Pastor model?
- What did we learn about ourselves?
- What are our hopes for the future?

Table leaders took notes. The notes were then collated and analyzed by a team from Case Western Reserve University. The report will be ready for distribution to you by the end of April.

I believe that in order for us to take full advantage of learning from this report we need to have an orderly process so that our reflection together leads us into the next ray of light that is before us.

I am asking you for a big commitment. Before we talk about the report, we need to grow in our ability to listen to and interact with one another. With this in mind the Session has contracted with the Cleveland Mediation Center for two three-hour trainings on conflict management, creative and faithful listening and communication skills. These trainings will be held on successive Saturday mornings from 9:00 a.m. to 12 Noon, April 15 and 22.

Then, on Sunday evening, May 21 from 5 p.m. to 8:00 p.m., leaders from Equius, an organization that has walked with us along the racial equity path for ten years, will lead a de-brief of the report on the Congregational Conversations.

The Session believes that these three events are intimately tied together. If we are going to grow and heal and learn from our past so we can move faithfully into God’s future for us, we need to make this commitment to each other.

I trust that you will try your best to come to all three. However, I realize that life is full. If you can only attend one or two sessions, it is important that you do that.

Finally, Session is discussing hiring an outside consultant to help us chart a faithful path forward. We are committed to engaging with a consultant firm that has both the theological and cultural competencies to help us on our continuing journey towards becoming the Beloved Community.

We are at a very important crossroads in the life of our church.

Faithfully yours,
Rev. Dr. John C. Lentz, Jr. Pastor

Dear Friends,

I know you join me in being devastated by the news of the shooting in Nashville. We are a sick nation. We lack the theological courage to imagine a more peaceful and just society where our children go to school without the fear of gun violence. It is shameful that we cannot raise the political will to pass common sense gun control.

Do not give up on faith, hope and love even in this time of stunned sadness. As we move further into this season of Lent, as we move towards the story of Christ’s passion and death feel the pain and raise the lament. But do not forget the triumph of Easter. God is waiting on us to be a resurrection people. I am grateful that after Easter we will be hosting a gun buyback in our parking lot. We have our voices, actions and our votes. Use them faithfully.

~Pastor John

ROSE PETAL WEDDING TOSS FOR SARAH LENTZ!!!

Be a part of Sarah’s big day by contributing your spent roses for tossing! It’s a tradition to shower the bride and groom as they exit the church, so as her church family lets all get in on the celebration.

Bring your spent roses to be dried, or do it yourself as it’s easy. Any color is fine. Pull the rose head gently off the stem, separate and scatter the petals loosely on a baking cooling rack. Toss daily until crispy. Place in an open paper bag or container and drop off at the volunteer office. Be sure to add your name so Sarah will know from whom they came.

Treat yourself to some roses (you deserve it) or honor your sweetie with a bouquet.

Any questions contact krisfay@mac.com.

YOUTH GROUP ACTIVITIES

We had fun and engaging gatherings last month.

We made breakfast burritos and enjoyed a meal together before worship on a chilly Sunday morning.
A group of twelve teens and parents visited the Maltz Museum to see the exhibit “This Light of Ours: Activist Photographers of the Civil Rights Movement.”

The group had fun and put all of their problem-solving skills to the test as they worked together to successfully get out of an ESCAPE ROOM in under an hour!

Paul Jennings, manager of the Abundant Food Pantry, joined us during a Sunday gathering to share information about this important mission of our congregation. Youth then had the opportunity to volunteer at the pantry on a Tuesday morning during their spring break.
OUR CHILDREN’S PROGRAMS ARE GROWING!
The sanctuary is alive on Sunday mornings with the voices and energy of our children, who participate in the opening moments of worship with their families. The nursery is often overflowing with babies and toddlers. Sunday School is a busy place with curious and active preschoolers and elementary-aged children. We are always delighted to welcome new children and families – please join us!

A Recollection of Concert, “Music She Wrote”
By Qin Ying Tan, Music Director

To celebrate Women’s History Month, the music ministry presented a concert program of music by female composers from the 17th and 18th century at Forest Hills Church on Saturday, March 4th. Jessica Kelley, who is a professor of sociology at Case Western Reserve University, led a talk and discussion prior to the concert, comparing issues that surrounded these female composers to current issues that still exist in today’s performing arts world.

Present-Day Issues
It is not shocking that women are still paid less than men and the percentage of female workers in STEM fields still make up less than 30% of the workforce. However, it was revealing to see that on average, American orchestras are made up of 63% men and 37% women.

The number of female conductors for orchestra is around 13% in the US and there are still no female conductors in the top five orchestras in America.

(Image of graph sourced from Classic FM)

(Presentation by Ying and Jessica Kelley during the pre-concert reception)
Though surprising, the absence of female artists is not a strange phenomenon. Almost all of the female composers of the music we heard on March 4th were not allowed to take on professional positions in courts and churches despite being fully qualified to do so. The reason—females were not allowed to be employed as professional composers and musicians. Positions were available as actresses and singers in theaters but female artistes in those professions had ill reputations and were always plagued by scandals.

Female Composers in 1700s-1800s
One of the female composers we presented during the talk and concert was Élisabeth Jacquet de la Guerre. Jacquet de la Guerre was a French harpsichordist and composer born to a family of master masons and musicians. By age five, the young prodigy had been invited to sing and play the keyboards at the court of Louis XIV. Her father, a harpsichord maker, was adamant that his daughters be afforded the same quality of musical education as his sons. This, in addition to the rich musical tradition of her family, helped Jacquet de la Guerre’s musical career flourish despite her gender.

As her gender prevented her from holding a position in court, Jacquet de la Guerre could only perform and publish privately. Fortunately, King Louis XIV recognized her talent and awarded her an annual pension, in addition to funding her publications.

(Soprano, Andrea Walker in “Music She Wrote”)
The unusual situation of Jacquet de la Guerre’s gender in the sphere of male professional musicians was not lost on the composer herself. As the first female to pen an opera in France, she made sure to note in the work’s dedication that the music was ‘a sort of piece that no one of my sex has yet attempted.’

The Master of the King’s Music, Jean-Baptiste Lully, delayed the premiere of her opera until a year after the composition was completed. The premiere was not well-received, with many speculating that the public (and perhaps the opera musicians themselves) were unwilling to accept the music of a woman.

In addition, female writers and artistes have often written of fears and concerns of putting their works in public. Barbara Strozzi (we sang her song, “L’Amante Segregate”) wrote of her apprehensions, “Being a woman, I am concerned about publishing this work. Would that it lie safely under a golden oak tree and not be endangered by the swords of slander which have certainly already been drawn to do battle against it.”

Barbara Strozzi did endure criticisms and slanders, and in fact, had to endure rumors that she was a courtesan since a lady of her standing did not sing and play in public in 17th century Italy. Despite such challenges, Barbara Strozzi’s entrepreneurial and thriving spirit endures to this day through her publications.

(Antoinette Franklin recites “Still I Rise” by Maya Angelou after Strozzi’s L’Amante Segreto)

This event was brought to fruition by the Friends of Music fund, and we gratefully acknowledge those who donated to this fund. We welcome contributions to FOM to help support more musical events at Forest Hills Church.
SHOW ME THE MONEY!

This year, your Stewardship Ministry is “doing something new.” We thought it might be meaningful for all of us to see where some of these commitment dollars go. It’s always great to be able to have some concrete examples of the operating budget we talk about sometimes a bit abstractly. While all of us run our households within (hopefully) our carefully measured budgets, it’s another thing entirely to run a whole church – ministries, building, staff, supplies, and on and on.

So, for example, have you ever wondered what it takes to do a start-of-season cleanup session on the outside grounds of the church? Never fear, we’re here to tell you.

FHC’s beautiful corner lot is large – about three acres. That includes many long edges that need cleaning up, a number of beds that need to be raked out and re-mulched, and, of course, a lot of grassy area to be mowed, raked, and maintained. As a congregation, we’ve made a commitment to a toxic-chemical-free landscaping regimen, so some processes are a bit more intensive than simply squirting a couple of gallons of RoundUp around. We’re committed to being responsible stewards of our planet in addition to our funds.

It costs nearly $2,000 for the landscaping crews to do the work that gets the spring season started. These costs for outside contractors don’t cover the many gifted hours of work done every year by congregants on the outside gardens (particularly the Memorial Garden and the Courtyard Garden) or staff custodial hours spent on grounds work.

Fortunately, FHC sought and has hired a minority-owned landscaping business for this work. So, our commitment dollars that go toward this operating expense are extending the benefits of circulating funds in the local community and supporting our anti-racist values.

Watch in coming months for more examples of our commitment dollars at work.

As always, we are honored to serve alongside you,

~The Stewardship Ministry

MAUNDY THURSDAY

Maundy Thursday consists of the Last Supper, the washing of the disciples’ feet, and it extends into the garden, where Jesus takes with him Peter, James, and John, to tarry while he goes off to pray. The story unfolds with Jesus fervently praying for God to take away the cup (his crucifixion). Three times he prayed for release, and each time his disciples fell asleep. Ultimately, Jesus came to acceptance, praying, “Nevertheless, not my will but Thine be done.”

Join us on Thursday, April 6, at 6 PM in Fellowship Hall. A worship Service will follow at 7 PM in the Sanctuary.

If you wish to join us for Maundy Thursday dinner, please register here: https://fhc.breezechms.com/form/25a55e15.

The objectives of the Equity Book Club and Racial Equity Buddies include: generating awareness and individual learning on topics of racial equity; facilitating discussions; and creating a safe space for conversations on these sensitive topics. We believe such conversations are a necessary prerequisite to establishing the Beloved Community that Dr. King so lovingly and boldly spoke of. Significantly, we see the Beloved Community extending beyond the walls of FHC into the broader community and embracing all. Toward that end, the book club and buddies have been endorsed and co-sponsored by The First Congregational Church of Hudson (UCC) and the Adult Spiritual Education Ministry of Forest Hill Church.

We invite you to join us on this equity journey. To participate in either program, you can: 1) email racialequitybuddies@fhcpresb.org; 2) call the office; 3) or sign up on BREEZE (https://fhc.breezechms.com/form/74fa0d190839624). All book club events are via ZOOM, Saturday mornings from 10:30 am to noon. Specific dates and books are listed below. Equity buddies have confidential and sacred conversations on issues of race and racism when convenient for the two buddies. If you would like an equity buddy we can assist in that endeavor.

Black History Does NOT Begin With Slavery
An alien who observed Black History Month celebrations throughout the United States easily could have come to the mistaken conclusion that Black History began with slavery. That is far from the truth! How and why Africa is not central to that celebration is puzzling.

The Equity Book Club, in our small way, is trying to remedy the overlooking of the continent where human life and civilization began. We continue to read and discuss books and events that occurred long before the African slave trade began. In January, we read the historical novel Homegoing, by Yaa Gyasi which gave us a glimpse of Africans and their culture free of western influences. This April we take a deeper dive into African antiquity when we discuss John Henrik Clarke’s* primer on the subject African People in World History.

We begin discussing this book and subject on Saturday morning April 29, from 10:30 am to noon via zoom. We conclude our discussion on this book on May 13.

Visualizing The True Size of Africa
The map below shows the true size of Africa, as revealed by the borders of the countries that can fit within the continent’s shape. The African continent has a land area of 30.37 million sq km (11.7 million sq mi) — enough to fit in the U.S., China, India, Japan, Mexico, and many European nations, combined.

*Dr. John Henrik Clarke
The Sankofa World Publishers website describes Clarke’s role in the mid-20th century political, academic, cultural, literary, and social leadership: “Dr. Clarke’s special relationship with African people afforded him the company of kings, queens, presidents, and other heads of state. For example, Dr. Clarke mentored Kwame Nkrumah while he was a student in the United States. Because of the special relationship they shared, when Ghana — the first Sub-Saharan nation in modern times — gained its independence in 1957, Clarke served as a journalist for the Ghana
Evening News for several years. Dr. Clarke was enstooled as a chief for a region among the Ga people of Ghana….

“Without a doubt, his association with Betty Shabazz and Malcolm X, Zora Neale Hurston, James Baldwin, Martin Luther King Jr., Richard Wright, Julian Mayfield, Audre Lorde, John G. Jackson, Chancellor Williams, Yosef ben-Jochannan, John Oliver Killens, Hoyt Fuller, Druscilla Dundee Houston, and many other important historical figures of this century who are too numerous to mention here, is a testimony of Dr. Clarke’s influence and place in history as a seminal figure.”

June 10 & 24 We conclude our book club for this year by visiting an issue roiling today’s political landscape, One Person, No Vote: How Voter Suppression Is Destroying Our Democracy, by Prof. Carol Andersen. Dr. Anderson is a highly praised academic who has mastered the art of gathering information and writing for a general readership. This book could not be timelier.

Today’s Voter Suppression Tactics Have A 150 Year History

"The Georgetown elections - the Negro at the ballot box." Cartoon by Thomas Nast, 1867. Library of Congress

Goodreads review in part:
With One Person, No Vote, she chronicles a related history: the rollbacks to African American participation in the vote since the 2013 Supreme Court decision that eviscerated the Voting Rights Act of 1965. Known as the Shelby ruling, this decision effectively allowed districts with a demonstrated history of racial discrimination to change voting requirements without approval from the Department of Justice.

Focusing on the aftermath of Shelby, Anderson follows the astonishing story of government-dictated racial discrimination unfolding before our very eyes as more and more states adopt voter suppression laws. In gripping, enlightening detail she explains how voter suppression works, from photo ID requirements to gerrymandering to poll closures. And with vivid characters, she explores the resistance: the organizing, activism, and court battles to restore the basic right to vote to all Americans. Kirkus’s review reads in part:

'After providing a look back at voter suppression throughout the history of the United States, Anderson (African-American Studies/Emory Univ.)—who won the National Book Critics Circle Award for White Rage: The Unspoken Truth of Our Racial Divide (2016), her top-notch dissection of racial issues in America—focuses on the years since 2013, when the majority of states and Congress ratcheted up their anti-democracy, racist campaign to reduce the number of black voters.'

~Quentin Smith
What is Biodiversity all about, and why does it matter?
Maintaining biodiversity is about keeping the natural world’s millions of plants and animals species alive in good health. Why? They are part of the continuous chain by which all, including we human species, are able to thrive on planet Earth. The ‘Earth Care’ for biodiversity takes on many actions and activities that intertwine a bit of everything, much like the current movie title. This includes maintaining the land, waters, air, ad forest as well so that our own species can live in harmony with the environment.

In addition to saving species simply for creation because God put them here, we are certainly aware that many species of plants and animals harbor the genetic material keys to our historical medical advances, and portend to many more that will benefit ours and future generations. Over many decades, scientific studies have shown that every ecosystem on the planet is governed by keystone species—be they land or aquatic animal, insect, or plants, that all other living things in that particular system depend upon. Consequently it can be said that no species should be allowed to become extinct through Man’s actions. Ultimately, we the human species are dependent on a vast complex of plant and animal life for our existence. Degradation and destruction of land and water habitat—especially that caused by man overwhelms any temporary effects caused by natural forces such as fire, drought, storms, floods, etc.

One prime example of a ‘keystone’ species—and a valuable success story—is the restoration of wolves to Yellowstone National Park. Wolves became the keystone species— predator—keeping elk and deer in check. In turn, fewer bowers meant that birch and other riverine tree species returned to flourish, resulting in better water flows and conservation, and subsequent return of beavers. Many other examples abound in many ecosystems around the globe where nature can rebound if given the chance. And a keystone species doesn’t always need to be a predator. In the Serengeti, it is the wildebeest. Their numbers fluctuate with their health, and their enemy the lion population follows. If all the lions go, overgrazing and conflicts with pastoral peoples and their livestock ensue as grassland is taken up—problems for other animals and people alike.

Protecting species is the mantra of organizations like Center for Biological Diversity. They are therefore focussed on programs that promote the funding and legislative support of the Endangered Species Act; the Environmental Protection Agency for clean air and water, and they oppose land-grab actions by natural resource extractive industries which bespoil the land and degrade valuable habitat for many plant and animal species.

IN PERSON BREEZE TRAINING FOR ELDERS OF THE MINISTRIES AND COMMITTEES!
Hello there! We want you to learn how Breeze applies to you! Let’s improve your Breeze skills. If you are a first, second, or third year elder or a leader of your committee, I (Antoinette) would like to meet with you. Training is available each Friday afternoon, to reserve a training slot, please email the church office (office@fhcpresb.org).

When people lack the resources to get through today, it’s difficult for them to focus on tomorrow. Soles4Souls turns shoes and clothing into opportunities for education and employment so they can have a more hopeful future.

If you wish to make a donation, you may donate on the website (https://soles4souls.org/) or donate in person each Tuesday during FHC Food Pantry hours (10 am-1 pm) with Gail Durany.

For more information, feel free to contact Gail at gduranys4s@gmail.com.

Emmanuel, our guest from Burkina Faso living in the church’s Sanctuary Apartment, has been able to receive an International Driver’s license. This allows him to drive in the United States, providing him the important freedom of getting around more easily. Please call or email Jeff Smith (jeffsmith2756@gmail.com, 216-312-6989). If you, or someone you know, has a used, relatively reliable automobile that might be donated to Emmanuel while he patiently waits for his asylum hearing to be heard. Since Emmanuel is a mechanic, the car does not have to be in perfect condition.

Guns to Gardens Safe Surrender Event
Sat. May 20, 10 am – 1 pm
Place unwanted, unloaded guns in a vehicle trunk.
Gun donors are anonymous.
No ammunition is accepted.
Thank you gift cards will be provided until they run out.

The project is part of the “Guns to Gardens” movement, which works to reduce gun violence by reducing the number of guns in homes and communities. Unwanted guns are dismantled and the leftover parts are forged into garden tools. Guns to Gardens Safe Surrender events will be offered across the nation marking Wear Orange Day, June 2, Hadiya Pendleton’s birthday. She was a high school student from the south side of Chicago, who marched in President Obama’s second inaugural parade. One week later, Hadiya was shot and killed on a playground in Chicago. Soon after this tragedy, Hadiya’s childhood friends decided to commemorate her life by wearing orange, the color hunters wear in the woods to protect themselves and others.

With over 400 million guns in American homes, many of these guns are no longer wanted for a range of reasons: the gun owner may have children or grandchildren in the home; a hunter or other gun owner may have reached an age where they no longer feel that they can safely handle weapons; a gun may have been returned to family by the police after it was used in a suicide or accident; there may be conflict in a family or there may a family member with a serious illness. For whatever reason, Guns to Gardens provides a way to dispose of unwanted guns without returning them to the gun marketplace, where they could be used for future harm.

Over 43,000 Americans die every year from gun violence. Approximately 60% of the gun deaths are from suicide, followed by homicide, family violence and accidents. A difficult moment can turn into a tragedy simply because a gun is nearby.

Please support this event by spreading the word to family, friends, neighbors, and co-workers. Flyers advertising the event are available. See Cynthia Lehman or Derry Stauffer for flyers and/or more information.

You may also reach out to Cynthia Lehman to volunteer or if you have questions (716.830.4330 or email lehman.cynthia@gmail.com).

GREENING WITH YOU AND THE INFLATION REDUCTION ACT

There are ways for us to green-up our household and save money in the process long term, although it requires some investment up front. The recently passed so-called Inflation Reduction Act provides for some ways to gain from going ‘greener’ with our household utilization of more energy efficient applications.

---Buying a new or even used electric vehicle can qualify for a tax credit, although of course you may also want/need to install home-centered charging facilities at upfront cost.
---It is known that gas stoves in the kitchen with leakage and use generate nearly as much methane-caused pollution as half a million cars. Switch to an electric stove. The new climate law allows for rebates if you switch to an electric range.
---In the laundry room, switching to an electric heat pump for drying is very popular in Europe and is much more energy efficient than a gas dryer. Purchase Rebates are also available here.
---A heat pump is another energy and cost-saving way to heat and cool your home with thoughtful control of your thermostat. Again, tax credits are available for new installations.
---With the steady reduction in costs for solar-based energy, through home installation of solar panels, or cooperative membership in regional wind or solar power farm installations, here is a good way to save money, reduce energy costs, reduce dependency on fossil fuels, and earn more tax credits.
---While not specifically related to the Inflation Reduction Act credit benefits, want to lower your food costs as well? Eat more locally-grown organic vegetables and minimize beef consumption for better compliance in combating climate change and pollution. Growing beef cattle in feed-lots demands great water usage for monoculture crops that feed the cattle, and the cattle increase methane-pollution. Truck-based transportation fuel costs and pollution emissions can be minimized with locally grown food consumption.

Of course, much of the above requires an up-front investment in order to reduce energy dependency and usage, and ultimately save money. It may not be financially prudent to simply run out just now and change our appliances that we depend on. But it is the price that we should consider in order to contribute to get away from dependency on fossil fuels and improve the health of our planet.
